

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Corporate Governance: fundamental to the sustainability and differentiation of organizations

Our Corporate Governance practice is interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary by nature. As a system of long-term relationships, increasingly necessary and strategic for any organization seeking to be sustainable and differentiated in its market, it has numerous relationships with other areas of law (corporate, contractual, compliance, and capital markets), as well as presupposing connections with other areas of human knowledge, such as business administration, economics, finance, and people management.

In their structural, procedural, personnel, and cultural dimensions, corporate governance systems are constantly improving, responding to both business crises and the challenges of formation, financing, and expansion that organizations face, precisely to restore or enhance their credibility with their stakeholders.

Our team provides strategic advice to boards, committees, and companies, as well as other advisory bodies, on corporate governance matters, in addition to working on processes involving auditing and anti-corruption issues. Furthermore, we participate in various discussion forums and representative entities on the subject, such as the Brazilian Institute of Corporate Governance (IBGC) and the Brazilian Institute of Business Law (IBRADEMP), fostering studies and discussions to further develop the topic.
